INTRODUCTION

The Budget for the fiscal year 1945 was submitted to Congress on January 10, 1944. At that time it was impracticable to submit definite, detailed recommendations of appropriations and other authorizations for 1945 for the major war agencies because of possible material changes in war conditions. However, preliminary estimates were included in the 1945 Budget for the war activities for which specific recommendations were postponed. During recent months, definite recommendations superseding the preliminary estimates for these agencies have been submitted to Congress by the President. This War Supplement now brings together these recommendations of appropriations and other authorizations. It does not, however, include supplemental recommendations submitted to Congress subsequent to the submission of the original detailed recommendations for these war agencies.

WAR RECOMMENDATIONS SUBMITTED SINCE THE 1945 BUDGET

The following tabulation compares the President's actual recommendations for 1945 war appropriations and other authorizations which have been submitted in recent months with the corresponding preliminary estimates in the 1945 Budget.

Part I of this War Supplement contains tables which itemize by organization units and appropriation titles the recommendations for the fiscal year 1945 shown in summary form in the foregoing table. Table 6 itemizes the recommended appropriations for 1945 for general and special accounts, together with the actual appropriations for 1944 and 1943 and the actual expenditures for 1943; table 11 does the same for trust accounts. The actual appropriations for 1944 as shown in these tables do not include supplemental appropriations enacted since the submission of the 1945 Budget last January. Table 7 itemizes the recommended new contract authorizations for 1945 and the actual authorizations for 1944 and 1943, together with the amounts included in the recommended 1945 and actual 1944 and 1943 general and special account appropriations for the liquidation of contract authorizations. Table 9 shows the recommended limitations for 1945 and the actual limitations for 1944 and 1943 on the administrative expenses of Government corporations payable from their own funds. The detailed recommendations for 1945 as shown in each of these tables replace the preliminary lump-sum estimates contained in the corresponding tables in the 1945 Budget.

Part II of this War Supplement contains the appropriation language and schedules of obligations supporting the recommendations for fiscal year 1945. This section also contains explanatory statements describing the functions and programs of each of the war agencies.

Part III contains similar explanatory statements and statements of cash receipts and expenditures for the Smaller War Plants Corporation and the corporations in the Foreign Economic Administration and in the Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, which were not included in the 1945 Budget.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

PREFACE

As indicated by the note following the preceding summary table, a comparison of the totals of the 1944 appropriations and 1945 estimates would be misleading, because the 1945 estimates include sufficient funds to meet the total cost of overtime and additional compensation, authorized by recent acts of Congress, while the 1944 appropriations made no provision for such payments. Such a comparison becomes even more unrealistic when it is realized that savings, in varying amounts, accruing during 1944 as a result of the lengthening of the official workweek, as well as savings from other causes, will be used to offset, as much as possible, the increased cost of personal services resulting from the payment of overtime and additional compensation.

The explanations of increases and decreases given in the following text therefore exclude from the comparisons the funds required to pay overtime and additional compensation, and deal only with the changes in fund requirements which reflect adjustments in workloads, work programs, and related factors. Hence the 1945 increases or decreases indicated in the last column of the above summary table are not strictly related to the explanations.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

COMMITTEE FOR CONGESTED PRODUCTION AREAS

The Committee for Congested Production Areas was established by Executive order on April 7, 1943, to provide for a more effective means of coordinating Federal, State, and local government activities in congested production areas.

The staff of the Committee works in war production centers in which the population has increased to such an extent that the communities cannot adequately feed, shelter, educate, and otherwise care for war workers and their families. This often results in high rates of absenteeism and turnover. The members of the staff of the Committee collaborate with local and State organizations concerned with solving these problems and coordinate the activities of those Federal agencies which can contribute to their solution. The Committee is now assisting in this way in 10 of the most critically congested areas and has completed its work and withdrawn local representatives in another 4 areas.

Since this work was organized during the current fiscal year, the funds shown for these services for 1944 cover only part of a year. The 1945 estimate provides for carrying the present personnel for the full year and, in addition, provides for a small increase in personnel to work in additional congested production areas.

OFFICE FOR EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

COMMITTEE ON FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICE

The Committee on Fair Employment Practice, originally established under the terms of an Executive order was reorganized under the terms of another Executive order issued on May 27, 1943.

The Committee promotes the fullest utilization of all available manpower and the elimination of discrimination by war industries, Federal agencies, and labor organizations with respect to terms and conditions of employment or union membership because of race, creed, color, or national origin. It has cooperative operating relationships with other Government agencies concerned with the utilization of manpower.

The Committee has established 11 field offices which handled 2,946 cases during the 6 months ended December 31, 1943. It is estimated that the case load during the fiscal year 1945 will increase slightly, but the accumulation of experience and the extension of cooperation by plant management and unions are expected to facilitate the satisfactory disposition of cases.

If the Committee is to keep pace with manpower requirements and geographical shifts of industry expected during the next fiscal year, a small increase in staff will be required to reduce the abnormal backlog of cases and the duration of case pendency. Provision for such increase is contained in the 1945 budget estimate.

DIVISION OF CENTRAL ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

The Division of Central Administrative Services was established within the Office for Emergency Management for the purpose of providing general office and other services to certain war agencies. This single agency was set up to reduce operating costs, to attain a fuller utilization of equipment and specialized personnel, to provide a greater degree of flexibility in operation, and to take advantage of numerous other benefits.

The services performed by the Division for the various agencies include both financial and general accounting functions; the purchase and storage of office supplies and equipment; the provision of office and other space required for housing numerous regional, State, and local offices operated by the agencies; mimeographing, multilithing, and similar forms of mechanical reproduction; bulk mailing and distribution of regulations, orders, and publications issued by the agencies; telephone service; a teletype system consisting of a network of leased wires to all important parts of the United States; a trucking service for the transportation of supplies and equipment; a passenger automobile service; and an accelerated mail and messenger service between buildings and agencies.

The Division now serves the Office of Price Administration and the majority of agencies in the Office for Emergency Management group including the War Production Board, the Office of War Information, the Office of Defense Transportation, and the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

In order to provide these agencies with adequate service throughout the entire area of their operations, the Division of Central Administrative Services maintains 10 regional offices, 45 district offices, and 2 territorial offices located in major centers of war agency activity.

The 1945 budget estimate is slightly below the Division's appropriation for the preceding year. This reduction is due primarily to the discontinuance of the Division's activity in connection with personnel investigations, the transfer of certain warehousing functions to the Procurement Division of the Treasury Department, the transfer of various accounting functions to certain of the agencies, and a number of changes in operating procedures and methods which have resulted in a substantial increase in efficiency.

FOREIGN ECONOMIC ADMINISTRATION

The Foreign Economic Administration was established by Executive order issued September 25, 1943, to unify and consolidate governmental activities relating to foreign economic affairs. To it was transferred (a) the Office of Lend-Lease Administration; (b) the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations; (c) the Office of Economic Warfare, including the United States Commercial Company, Rubber Development Corporation, Petroleum Reserves Corporation, and the Export-Import Bank of Washington; (d) the foreign economic operations of the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; (e) the functions of the War Food Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation with respect to the procurement and development of food, food machinery, and other food facilities in foreign countries.

Economic operations for which the Administration is responsible include the following: Provision of articles, information, and services under the Lend-Lease Act, and arrangement for reverse lend-lease of like items; procurement and development of strategic materials abroad; the preclusive purchase of commodities abroad to prevent their acquisition by the enemy; control, for war purposes, of exports from the United States; collection of information and intelligence for use in the analysis of enemy economic strength and in the administration of procurement and export activities; arrangement for the procurement of supplies for relief purposes in liberated areas; disposal of surplus war materials abroad subject to the direction of the Director of War Mobilization; and the over-all reporting of Government expenditures and receipts abroad.

Principal organization units of the Foreign Economic Administration are six staff offices, two operating bureaus (the Bureau of Supplies and the Bureau of Areas), and the Foreign Economic Service which includes the several foreign field missions of the agency.

Increased activity is anticipated in a number of phases of the work of the Administration. Several new functions have been recently added to the responsibilities of the Agency, including surplus property disposal abroad, assistance to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and over-all reporting of Government expenditures and receipts abroad. The estimates for 1945 are substantially below the total appropriated for 1944 expenses of the functions and agencies which were consolidated into the Foreign Economic Administration.

Export-Import Bank of Washington

The Export-Import Bank of Washington operates as a self-contained unit under the Foreign Economic Administration. It was organized in 1934 to facilitate the foreign trade of the United States. A 1940 statute authorized the Bank to develop the resources, stabilize the economies, and assist in the orderly marketing of products of countries of the Western Hemisphere. At present, the Bank is also financing exportation of equipment for development of foreign resources essential to the prosecution of the war.

The authority for the Bank will expire as of the close of business on January 22, 1947, or such earlier date as may be fixed by the President by Executive order.

The estimates for 1945 reflect an anticipated minor increase in the workload of the Bank over 1944.

NATIONAL WAR LABOR BOARD

The National War Labor Board was established by Executive order, issued January 12, 1942, following the wartime no-strike no-lockout agreement by labor and industry representatives. The Board is composed of four public, four industry, and four labor representatives, with alternate members in each category. Under the War Labor Disputes Act of June 25, 1943, it was given statutory and other powers, including that of subpoena. The Board has a twofold task: (1) To obtain settlement of wartime labor disputes subject to its jurisdiction, and (2) to administer the wage stabilization program, which affects some 500,000 employers and 30,000,000 workers.

On October 2, 1942, Congress enacted an amendment to the Emergency Price Control Act authorizing the President to issue a general order for the stabilization of prices, wages, and salaries at the levels existing, as far as practicable, on September 15, 1942. Wage adjustment was authorized to the extent necessary to correct gross inequities, or aid in the effective prosecution of the war. The President by Executive order authorized the War Labor Board to carry out the mandate of Congress with respect to stabilization of all wages and of most salaries under $5,000 per annum.

The national wage stabilization policy as embodied in acts of Congress and Executive orders provides four principles as bases for adjustment of wage rates. The Little Steel Formula permits correction up to 15 percent of the maladjustment between wage or salary rates and the increase in the cost of living. A second principle permits adjustment of substandard rates of pay up to established minima on the basis that the law was not intended to stabilize substandards of living. The third principle is the application of the wage bracket theory for the purpose of correcting gross inequities in existing wage structures as compared with sound and tested going rates in the same or comparable local industries. Finally, wage adjustments may be made in those rare and unusual cases in which increased wage levels are found to be necessary to production of goods and services required for effective prosecution of the war.

By December 31, 1943, the Board and its subordinate regional boards and industry commissions had received 7,846 dispute cases, and had issued 4,779 final decisions. More than 10,000,000 employees were involved in these disputes. From July 1, 1943, through March 17, 1944, the regional boards received 4,189 dispute cases and decided 3,468. Such cases are now averaging about 550 a month, or about ten times the monthly rate during the early days of the Board.

Between July 1, 1943, and March 17, 1944, a total of 118,228 applications for approval of voluntary wage or salary increases were received. During the same period, the Board and its agencies acted upon 116,895 applications involving more than 6,500,000 employees. Seventy-three percent of the applications came from employers alone, while 27 percent were joint applications of unions and employers who had agreed upon the proposed increases.

During the first year of wage stabilization, basic hourly wage rates for factory workers increased only 1.1 cents as a result of action by the War Labor Board, although the total increase in gross average hourly earnings amounted to 9.6 cents. The remaining 8.5 cents increase was due to longer work weeks, upgrading to higher skilled jobs, and other noninflationary wage factors. During the first 16 months of wage stabilization, 588 cases, or less than one-half of 1 percent of all voluntary and disputes cases decided by the Board required approval by the Director of Economic Stabilization because price increases or increases in cost of the product to the Government were involved.

Of a total exceeding 4,700 disputes cases decided by the Board, only 13 have been referred to the President in order to obtain compliance with Board orders. This record testifies to the cooperation shown the Board by industry and labor. The number of strikes during the past 2 years decreased 2.5 percent from the average for the 5-year period immediately preceding the war. The man-days lost per war year actually fell 48.1 percent below the peacetime average; for 1942-43, the average man-days lost per strike dropped 46.7 percent, as compared with the prewar period. Excluding the coal strike, which was the most serious strike during 1943, the loss of man-days due to strikes was 27 percent higher than in 1942, but below that of every other year since 1933. The man-days lost as a result of strikes amounted to less than one-tenth of 1 percent of the total man-days worked during 1943.

The 1945 estimate provides for financing the activities of the Board at an annual level slightly in excess of 1944 activities. Voluntary wage adjustment cases during 1945 are expected to continue at about the present rate of 3,200 applications a week, and dispute cases at the present weekly rate of 125. The volume of cases received is in each instance 25 percent above the average weekly receipts 1 year ago.

OFFICE OF ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

Under Executive orders of March 11, 1942, and July 6, 1942, the Office of Alien Property Custodian controls, administers, or disposes of selected classes of property in which nationals of enemy or enemy-occupied countries have, or have had, an interest. Property with which the Office deals falls into five main groups: (1) Business enterprises; (2) patents, trademarks, and copyrights; (3) real and personal property; (4) ships; and (5) property in process of judicial administration. Foreign-owned cash, bank deposits, and investment securities are administered by the Treasury Department under its Foreign Funds Control program. An Executive order issued April 21, 1942, provided for the transfer from the Department of Justice to the Custodian of alien property matters remaining from the First World War.

The function of the Custodian is to search out and to obtain control of all enemy or enemy-dominated interests in property under United States jurisdiction to insure that such property is administered with maximum benefit for the war program and the economy of the United States. To accomplish this, the Custodian either "vests" taking outright title to the property from the foreign owner, or controls the use of property by means of a "supervisory order" without actual transfer of title, or issues general orders and regulations requiring or restraining the performance of specified acts by persons with interests in such property. The gross value of property subjected to control through vesting and related supervisory orders totaled approximately $428,000,000 at the time of vesting, exclusive of patents, trademarks, copyrights, and ships.

The general policy of the Office is the early liquidation or sale of all vested business enterprises except a few concerns engaged in the direct production of war supplies. For an interim period these properties will continue to be operated under managements approved and directed by the Custodian. Proceeds from the sale of vested property are deposited in the United States Treasury and held pending disposition by the Congress.

Inventions disclosed in vested patents are being made freely available to American industry. No patents are for sale, but enemy patents not already under exclusive license to Americans prior to seizure are being licensed for the remaining life of the patents on a nonexclusive, royalty-free basis to qualified American manufacturers. Non-enemy-vested patents are to be similarly licensed except that reasonable royalties will be in effect beginning 6 months after the war. Through April 30, 1944, a total of some 45,000 patents and patent applications had been vested, of which approximately 5,000 had been licensed to American industry. The Custodian also licenses reproduction of foreign scientific works and other copyrighted materials of importance to war research or of cultural, educational, or commercial value.

The 1945 budget estimate of $4,000,000 for the Office of Alien Property Custodian is substantially less than the costs of operation during the fiscal year 1944, since the large bulk of enemy property has now been vested. The estimates place major emphasis on the disposition of remaining business enterprises and real estate and the administration of the Custodian's patent holdings.

Administrative costs of the Office of Alien Property Custodian, as approved by the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, are chargeable to the properties held by the Custodian.

OFFICE OF CIVILIAN DEFENSE

The Office of Civilian Defense was established by Executive order issued May 20, 1941. The Office is responsible for furnishing information and advice to State and local governments and to defense organizations engaged in stimulating volunteer citizen participation in the war program and for providing facilities and equipment for the adequate protection of persons and property in the United States and its possessions from enemy attack.

The substantial reduction in the 1945 estimate as compared with the 1944 appropriation results from the completion of organizational work in States and communities, as well as less danger of enemy attack. The estimate provides for a small organization to keep abreast of changes in methods of air attack and defense techniques and the maintenance of the medical, industrial protection, and property programs on a stand-by basis. It will also enable the Office to continue its present cooperative advisory relationship with State defense councils with respect to volunteer participation in the war programs of other Federal agencies.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE TRANSPORTATION

The Office of Defense Transportation was created by Executive order on December 18, 1941. The basic responsibility of this agency is to insure that all forms of domestic transportation are so utilized as to fulfill the needs of the war effort. In discharging this obligation the agency surveys the adequacy of all types of domestic commercial transportation facilities. It promotes the utilization of all forms of commercial domestic transportation to obtain the maximum amount of transportation service with a minimum amount of equipment. In carrying out this program the agency has required heavier loading of freight cars, has curtailed passenger service, has eliminated duplicating and overlapping service, and has adjusted the gasoline allowances for motor carriers to the minimum amount required for essential operation.

This agency recommends the assignment of materials to enlarge the capacity of railroads, domestic shipping, and all types of commercial motor carriers whenever the need arises. When necessary, it directs the movement of traffic to avoid congestion. To aid in achieving this same purpose, it encourages the provision of additional storage and warehousing facilities at terminal points where congestion otherwise might develop.

The Office is also concerned with maximum utilization of domestic shipping. It promotes close coordination between rail movements and shipping on the Great Lakes. Likewise, the agency restricts the movement to ports of export tonnage to that which can be received by available shipping, and thereby prevents an accumulation of freight cars in the ports.

The 1945 budget estimate provides for the financing of this Office at a substantially higher level than in the fiscal year 1944.

OFFICE OF ECONOMIC STABILIZATION

The Office of Economic Stabilization was established by Executive order issued October 3, 1942. The Office is responsible for developing broad national policies relating to the control of civilian purchasing power, prices, rents, wages, salaries, profits, rationing, subsidies, and related matters for the purpose of stabilizing the cost of living. The Director is assisted by and consults with an Economic Stabilization Board composed of eight Government and six public members representing labor, management, and farmers.

The Office carries out its policies and decisions through such operating agencies as the Office of Price Administration and the War Production Board, rather than by performing these functions itself. The 1945 estimate provides for the financing of the activities of this Office at the same level as in 1944.

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

The Office of Scientific Research and Development was established by Executive order issued June 28, 1941. This agency, through its National Defense Research Committee, undertakes scientific research and development work on new and improved weapons of war. Through the Committee on Medical Research, research is carried on in medical fields for the benefit of the armed services. During fiscal year 1944, an Office of Field Services has been established to study performance of weapons in the war theaters.

The research projects of the Office are undertaken by specific request of the Army and Navy, and are carried on in close collaboration with the interested services. The actual research is done by academic and industrial institutions under contracts on a nonprofit basis. The 1945 estimate for research represents the amount required for maximum use of all the scientific personnel and facilities available, and is 6 percent less than the corresponding 1944 obligations.

These activities are an integral part of a coordinated program of war research. The other participating agencies are the War and Navy Departments and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

OFFICE OF THE COORDINATOR OF INTER-AMERICAN AFFAIRS

The Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs was established by an Executive order on July 30, 1941. This Executive order superseded an earlier order which established the Office for Coordination of Commercial and Cultural Relations between the American Republics under the Council of National Defense.

This Office is charged with the responsibility for formulating, recommending, and executing programs in the commercial and economic fields and in such fields as education, radio, press, and motion pictures, which, by the effective use of governmental and private facilities, will further the hemisphere war program and strengthen the bonds between the nations of the Western Hemisphere.

The curtailment of normal hemisphere trade and civilian production due to necessary wartime restrictions has caused increasing economic dislocations and hardships to countries which are ill-prepared to meet them. It is to the interest of the Americas to work together for the solution of their common problems in the fields of industrial development, health, sanitation, food supply, and toward achieving full employment after the war.

The Americas have established a fruitful system of cooperation. Through the extension of this system they have attained a high degree of mutual aid, understanding, and confidence, which must be continued during the period of conversion of the tremendous productive power of the Americas from war needs to peace needs.

To further this permanent cooperation, the Office of the Coordinator employs all means of communication, such as press, radio, motion pictures, educational, and scientific media, as well as economic and health measures. The Office works in close cooperation with other Government agencies, particularly the Department of State.

The estimate for 1945 shows a decrease from the 1944 appropriation due largely to the inclusion of a nonrecurring item in 1944 for the basic economy program involving health and sanitation and food supply work, the curtailment in 1945 of operations in the information field and the assumption of some programs by private agencies.

OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION

The domestic and foreign war information functions of the Government, exclusive of Central and South America, were assigned to the Office of War Information by Executive order issued June 13, 1942. The scope of this authority as to domestic information was redefined by the National War Agencies Appropriation Act, 1944. As a result, the program of the Domestic Branch of the Office of War Information has been contracted and redirected. The program of the Overseas Branch is still expanding, under the impetus of intensified military activities both in Europe and the Far East.

Office of the Director and Management Services.—This unit is responsible for over-all policy direction and management of the Office of War Information. Although the 1945 estimate reflects some decrease in workload, because of the transfer of functions to the Division of Central Administrative Services, this decrease is largely offset by a small increase in the workload of management planning and operating services.

Domestic Branch.—By action of Congress, all production was eliminated from the program of the Domestic Branch, and its function became one of consultation and advice. The primary objective of this program is to prevent conflicts and overlapping in the war information campaigns of all Government agencies, and to enlist the support of the radio, motion picture, book and magazine, and specialized press industries in support of these campaigns. A small staff is also provided to review and to eliminate unnecessary Government informational publications, and to service OWI and the Government as a whole with press clippings, public informational surveys, and a central public inquiries activity. The program for 1945 contemplates a continuation of these activities at the level established at the end of fiscal year 1944. The decrease in the 1945 budget is accounted for by the elimination of funds included in the 1944 appropriation for the liquidation of certain activities.

Overseas Branch.—The program of the Overseas Branch includes information activities in allied and neutral countries and psychological warfare activities which are carried on in conjunction with the military forces of the United States. The purpose of the information activities is to present facts about the contribution of the United States to the war. The psychological warfare activities cover pre-invasion, actual combat, and post-invasion phases. For the accomplishment of its objectives, the Office of War Information uses publications, radio, motion pictures, exhibit displays, and other media, with an organization of outposts abroad as distribution centers. The entire increase in the 1945 estimate in comparison with the 1944 appropriation is to provide for the psychological warfare program that is being developed in conjunction with the military. This program is expected to require a considerable expansion of production in the United States as well as greatly accelerated activities abroad. The information program in allied and neutral countries is being maintained at the 1944 level.

OFFICE OF WAR MOBILIZATION

The Office of War Mobilization, which was established by Executive order on May 27, 1943, develops unified programs and establishes policies for the maximum use of the Nation's natural and industrial resources for military and civilian needs, for the effective use of the national manpower not in the armed forces, for the maintenance and stabilization of the civilian economy, and for the adjustment of such economy to war needs and conditions.

There were recently established in the Office of War Mobilization the Surplus War Property Administration and the Retraining and Reemployment Administration, both subject to the general supervision of the Director of War Mobilization. The Surplus War Property Administration has general supervision and direction of the handling and disposition of surplus war property. The Retraining and Reemployment Administration has general supervision and direction of the activities of all Government agencies relating to the retraining and reemployment of persons discharged or released from the armed services or other war work.

The increase in the 1945 budget is attributable to the two new programs on surplus war property and retraining and reemployment which were not included in the 1944 appropriation.

WAR MANPOWER COMMISSION

The War Manpower Commission was established by Executive order on April 18, 1942, to assure the most effective mobilization and utilization of the Nation's manpower for the war. The Commission establishes policies and prescribes regulations governing all Federal programs relating to recruitment, training, and placement to meet the needs of industry and agriculture. It also prescribes basic policies governing the meeting of the Federal Government's requirements for manpower, excluding the military and naval forces, and issues such operating directives that may be necessary. The Executive order creating the Commission directs all Federal departments and agencies which perform functions relating to the recruitment or utilization of manpower to conform to such policies and directives as the Chairman may prescribe. An Executive order on September 17, 1942, transferred to the War Manpower Commission the United States Employment Service and all functions, duties, and powers of the Social Security Board in the Federal Security Agency relating to Employment Service, the Apprentice Training Service, and the Training-Within-Industry Service.

The estimates for 1945 reflect an increase to carry for the full fiscal year some basic manpower programs that were financed only for a part of the current fiscal year. No major change in the program or in the volume of work is expected to occur during 1945, although there will be a considerable change in emphasis on some phases of the program due to changes in labor market conditions. Strict allocation of available workers to war industries will be necessary and shifts of workers from plants in which production may be curtailed to plants with expanding production will be essential. Increased utilization of workers in industry will be necessary to bridge the manpower gap caused by additional inductions into the armed forces. To retain required manpower in war production, careful control will be necessary to prevent a harmful shift of manpower from temporary war industries to establishments where production for civilian use has been resumed.

General Administration.—The War Manpower Commission carries on its operations on a highly decentralized basis with a small proportion of its personnel located in Washington, where basic staff work on broad program development is done. Within the headquarters organization the Bureau of Placement develops programs for the recruitment of workers and the stabilization of the labor supply. It also is responsible for the operation of the National Roster of Professional and Scientific Personnel and the Procurement and Assignment Service which recruits and allocates doctors and nurses for the armed services and civilian needs. The Bureau of Labor Utilization concerns itself with developing studies and techniques for the full utilization of workers in the war industries. The Bureau of Training coordinates the activities of all agencies responsible for the training of workers for industry. The Reports and Analysis Service collects and analyzes labor market information for the use of all agencies concerned with war production.

Employment Office Facilities and Services (United States Employment Service).—The main operating arm of the War Manpower Commission is the United States Employment Service. It carries the brunt of the major programs of the Commission and as the controls of individual workers increase and the need for strict allocation of the available supply becomes imperative, the local office of the United States Employment Service must accept the responsibility for exercising the controls and making provision for the equitable distribution of the supply of labor. The program for the placement of returned veterans will be greatly expanded. Immediate placement of veterans is imperative, not only as a means of utilizing this source of labor, but primarily as a means of giving primary assistance to these veterans in becoming re-established in civilian life.

The 1,429 local offices of the United States Employment Service collect the basic labor market data for the War Manpower Commission. The data are derived directly from information supplied by employers and other community sources and are then analyzed and consolidated for national use. This is the most comprehensive information available on the supply and demand of labor for war industry.

Training-Within-Industry Service.—The function of this Service is to assist war industries through counsel, advice, and technical service in training supervisors how to lead and teach their workers. The foremen are trained within the plants at the expense of management to make the maximum use of the abilities of every worker in war production and essential services.

Apprentice Training Service.—The Apprentice Training Service promotes the establishment and administration of employee training programs within industrial plants. There are two major functions: (1) To assist management and labor to develop and maintain apprenticeship programs for apprentices learning to become craftsmen in the recognized skilled trades and (2) to develop and maintain training programs for up-grading workers.

Migration of Workers.—Due to the continued labor shortage in certain critical war industries which cannot be met by the internal supply of labor, the War Manpower Commission proposes to bring in, from certain foreign countries on the continent and neighboring islands, a supply of labor which is now available and unemployed. It is proposed that transportation be provided to the port of entry, and return from the port of entry, with the employer meeting the cost of transportation within the continental United States. Agreements have been entered into with several foreign governments and informal arrangements made with Puerto Rico for the recruitment of both skilled and unskilled labor.

WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

The War Production Board was established by two Executive orders in January 1942. The predecessor agencies—the Advisory Commission to the Council of National Defense, the Office of Production Management, and the Supply, Priorities, and Allocation Board—had lacked the authority and organizational flexibility to coordinate war production effectively. They were absorbed into the War Production Board which was given authority to exercise general direction of the war production program, to determine the policies and methods of other Federal agencies with respect to war production and war purchasing, and to issue all priority ratings.

In the fiscal year 1942 the compelling problem was to mobilize and utilize as quickly and as fully as possible the vast resources of labor, materials, and industrial facilities that could be converted for use in the war effort, and to develop additional resources. The effectiveness of the steps taken is shown by the fact that total output of munitions and war construction in 1942 increased to two and one-half times that of 1941, while the increase in munitions alone was threefold.

In the fiscal year 1943 a further conversion of plants and equipment from civilian to war use was effected, but the major contribution to acceleration of output during this year came from the additions that were made to our industrial facilities. Administrative controls over production were greatly improved. The Controlled Materials Plan was developed to assure a flow of steel, copper, and aluminum in accord with the needs of war and essential civilian production. The procurement services developed improved scheduling procedures and the War Production Board extended its scheduling control to cover critical components, i. e., scarce items such as heat exchangers needed for incorporation in various types of plants and products, and materials. By December 1943 total war production had been expanded to a volume close to the peak required to meet the needs of global war as defined by our military authorities.

For the entire war program, the scheduled 1944 production output calls for an increase only slightly over the rate achieved in December 1943. The increases ahead are exclusively in munitions and the scheduled peak should be reached within the next few months. For the immediate future the task of the War Production Board will be to see that military requirements are met in full, to keep our production system sufficiently flexible to meet any changes in such requirements that may arise from major campaigns, to provide for the essential needs of the civilian population, and to plan for the resumption of a sound peace economy at the war's end.

During the fiscal year 1944 achievement of many of the production goals, relaxation of certain controls, where practicable, and a general improvement in efficiency have permitted economies with the result that the 1945 budget is substantially lower than the 1944 appropriation.

Smaller War Plants Corporation

Public Law 603, 77th Congress, was enacted June 11, 1942, "to mobilize the productive facilities of small business in the interests of successful prosecution of the war, and for other purposes." The act established the Smaller War Plants Corporation with direct authority to make loans, lease equipment, land, or plants to small business, enter into a contract with the United States Government and subcontract such to small business and other functions relating to mobilizing small business. The act also authorized the Chairman of the War Production Board through a deputy "to mobilize aggressively the productive capacity of all small business concerns, and to determine the means by which such concerns can be more efficiently and effectively utilized to augment war production." The Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Smaller War Plants Corporation acts also as a vice chairman of the War Production Board and has been deputized to perform those functions which the act empowered the Chairman of the War Production Board to perform.

In carrying out these responsibilities, the Smaller War Plants Corporation assists small business by (1) entering into a prime contract with Government procurement officers and subcontracting such prime contracts to small business; (2) endeavoring to secure prime and subcontracts for small business; (3) by providing technical and advisory assistance to small business; and (4) making loans and leases for small business.

The 1945 budget contemplates a somewhat higher employment than the 1944 budget as it is expected that the Corporation will take a more aggressive approach to the small business problem. The reduced amount of the budget represents a decrease in estimated costs of loan services provided by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and contract engineering services.

WAR SHIPPING ADMINISTRATION

The War Shipping Administration was established by Executive order issued February 7, 1942. With the exception of actual construction, its responsibilities extend to all phases of shipping, including the purchasing or requisitioning of vessels for its own use or that of the Army, Navy, or other Government agencies; the repairing and defending of WSA controlled vessels and allied vessels under lend-lease; the conversion of vessels already afloat to troop transports, hospital ships, and for other special purposes; the training of seamen; the manning, operating, loading, discharging, and general control of the movement of merchant vessels; the administering of the marine and war risk insurance laws and funds; and control of terminal and port facilities.

The Administration is operating, through its agents, the largest pool of merchant vessels in the world. The fleet has expanded to three times its peace-time size, and a further expansion amounting to more than 30 percent is planned during the fiscal year 1945. The War Shipping Administration has met, and is continuing to meet, the requirements of the Army, the Navy, and lend-lease; and no essential military cargo has been left on the piers for lack of ships. It is estimated, however, that these needs will require 88 percent of available shipping space during the fiscal year 1945, leaving the balance for the transportation of essential raw materials and civilian necessities.

Increased costs consonant with the growth of our merchant marine have been reflected in the present estimates. After making allowance for revenues derived from the carriage of lend-lease and commercial cargoes, net obligations in the fiscal year 1945 are expected to be approximately 10 percent greater than obligations in 1944. Estimates of appropriations, however, are considerably smaller in the aggregate due to availability in 1945 of the balance of the revolving fund unobligated in 1944 and a transfer from the Marine and War Risk Insurance Fund.

OFFICE OF CENSORSHIP

The Office of Censorship, which was established by Executive order on December 19, 1941, censors all communications by mail, cable, and radio, between the United States and any foreign country. It has also issued the voluntary censorship codes for the domestic press and broadcasting stations and has provided information and advice concerning these codes. The agency maintains close relations with the censorship activities of other United Nations. It suggests and develops in cooperation with British censorship and the Department of State revisions in censorship practices to suit changing conditions.

The amount requested for the fiscal year 1945 provides for continuation of the present program on its present scale of operation.

Postal Censorship.—The request for the Postal Division, which also includes prisoner-of-war censorship, represents the major portion of the budget. This division is concerned with the censoring of postal communications between the United States and foreign countries in order to prevent transmission of information which might be useful to the enemy and in order to utilize information from communications examined which might be of value to the successful prosecution of the war.

With the increased military activities in Europe and with the contact of American troops with the enemy on the European continent, an increase in mail to and from prisoners of war has occurred. Unlike the Pacific theater, prisoner-of-war correspondence channels with the enemy are now open in Europe. Negotiations to open mail channels to the Far East are being continued.

Cable Censorship.—Cable censorship is concerned with censoring all international traffic by electrical communications entering and leaving the United States. As the war progresses, additional areas will require cable censorship.

OFFICE OF PRICE ADMINISTRATION

The Office of Price Administration is charged with statutory responsibility under the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 to stabilize prices and rents, to protect war appropriations against dissipation by excessive prices, to protect persons with fixed incomes against undue impairment of their standard of living, to assist in securing adequate production of commodities and facilities, and to prevent a post-war collapse of values. The Office, through delegation of authority by the War Production Board under the Second War Powers Act, has the further responsibility of rationing such commodities as may be designated by the supply agencies responsible for their control.

The Office, through delegation of authority by directive from the Office of Economic Stabilization, receives notices of increases in common carrier and other public utility rates and intervenes in proceedings before regulatory bodies to prevent rate increases.

The 1945 estimate is less than 3 percent higher than the amount appropriated for the fiscal year 1944.

Executive Offices.—O. P. A. executive offices include the Administrator, the regional administrators, and the district directors, together with their assistants and advisers. During the present fiscal year the Administrator has added staff advisers on industry, agriculture, labor, and racial problems. Some 18 major administrative or policy changes have been initiated in order to make the agency more effective in its operations.

Price Department.—The accomplishments of the price-control program have been significant. Between April 1943, when the President's hold-the-line order was issued, and April 1944 no significant net change occurred in the cost of living index. Similar success was attained in the field of industrial prices which increased only 1.9 percent during the same period.

During the fiscal year 1945 it will be necessary to expand the community pricing programs, the compliance education program, and to place increased emphasis upon improving controls in the clothing field. In addition the department faces new responsibilities for pricing Government-owned surplus goods and civilian goods produced by industries in the process of reconversion to peacetime production. Though operating patterns for continuing responsibilities have been established, the new fields of surplus-goods and reconversion pricing are as yet of unknown complexity and magnitude. Like the early work of the agency, they require pioneering. The staff and fund requirements for these functions cannot now be accurately foreseen.

Rent Department.—The rent-control program has achieved outstanding results. For two difficult years it has held stable this most important item in the family budget. The rent index shows a total rise of only 3.5 percent since 1939—and no rise whatever since rent control was established in July 1942.

The Federal rent regulation is now effective in 370 areas covering over 14 million rental dwelling units. During the current fiscal year, 45 new areas were covered, including the important area of New York City. Continuous surveys and analyses of findings are made to determine the need for extending or removing control. It is now believed that 60 new areas will require coverage during the fiscal year 1945. With a total of over 400 areas under rent control, the administrative workload, including the prompt handling of landlord and tenant applications and the requirements of an effective compliance and educational program, will be extremely heavy.

Rationing Department.—The department is at present responsible for rationing 14 commodities in the highly complex program of distributing available supplies in an equitable and orderly manner. Progress has been made in liberalizing and simplifying food rationing both for consumers and for the trade. Greater flexibility was also attained in allowing for individual needs despite a tightening of eligibility requirements for products such as fuel oil and rubber tires. More authority was delegated to local boards, and at the same time their work was made easier through simplification of forms.

The 1945 budget does not provide for new rationing programs which may become necessary.

Enforcement Department.—During the past calendar year enforcement activity included the investigation of more than 650,000 cases, of which some 280,000 were in violation. The bulk of these cases was handled successfully through administrative rather than court action. Where court proceedings were instituted, the Office was highly successful. In 96.3 percent of the cases, enforcement action successfully maintained the price, rent, or rationing control involved. Increased attention has been given to the problems of the theft and counterfeiting of ration coupons.

The 1945 budget provides an increase of over $7 million for strengthened enforcement activities. These will be concerned chiefly with problems at the manufacturing and wholesale levels, leaving retail and consumer problems to the price checking and other compliance work of the volunteer price panels of local boards.

Information Department.—The established policy of the agency is to secure compliance in the first instance by better public information and understanding. The central point of this effort is the Information Department. The small national office staff confines its activities to planning programs and maintaining contacts with the national press and radio and with educational, civic, and trade organizations. In the national office a consumer advisory committee keeps the department and the Administrator in close touch with problems faced by the housewives of the country.

The major emphasis of department activity is concentrated in the district offices and the local boards. Some 5,500 volunteer community service members of local boards carry on active neighborhood information programs.

Administrative Management Department.—As the Office emerged from the pressures which characterized the early period of operations there was need for a general overhauling. In July 1943 an intensive reorganization was undertaken to correct weaknesses and to improve operations. This department has carried a major share of the work in the fields of organization planning, personnel utilization, establishment of issuing and verification centers for the safeguarding of ration currency, and the like. During the coming year improvement of field management will be a major emphasis.

Local Boards.—The local War Price and Rationing Boards are the primary points of contact between the Office and the public. The boards consist of volunteer panels assisted by paid clerks. The volunteer panel members determine whether or not rations above the basic minimum allotted to each individual shall be granted. They assist in instructing merchants and obtaining compliance with price ceilings and rationing regulations. During 1945 additional emphasis will be given to the price compliance work.

There are now 5,564 local boards. Approximately 62 percent of the paid employees of the agency are working in the local boards. This staff supervises and assists over 100,000 regular volunteer workers and some 300,000 who serve during periods of peak work.

OFFICE OF STRATEGIC SERVICES

The Office of Strategic Services was established by Executive order on June 13, 1942, under the jurisdiction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The Office thereby became a part of the land and naval forces and its duties and functions have since been essentially military in character. These duties are defined in order as follows: (a) Collect and analyze such strategic information as may be required by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and (b) plan and operate such special services as may be directed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The 1945 budget is about 60 percent larger than the appropriation for 1944 due to increased military activities.

PETROLEUM ADMINISTRATION FOR WAR

The Petroleum Administration for War was established by Executive order on December 2, 1942, for the purpose of coordinating and centralizing the war policies and activities of the Government relating to petroleum in order to provide adequate supplies of petroleum for the prosecution of the war and other essential needs. Since its inception, the Administration has met critical emergencies and has supplied all military needs without seriously curtailing essential civilian activities. It has succeeded in supplying tremendous quantities of petroleum products when and where they were needed by the coordination of all operations of the industry under Administration direction. Plants have been built and expanded for the production of 100-octane aviation gasoline. Sponsored by the Administration, this program alone will eventually cost in excess of $900,000,000.

The development of other means of transportation as a substitute for ocean tanker shipments to the east coast, in cooperation with the Office of Defense Transportation, Defense Plant Corporation, Defense Supplies Corporation, and industry generally, has been a continuing program. Temporarily solved by the end of 1943 this problem again became acute early in 1944. A better control of supplies has made it possible to weather this serious situation without the desperate civilian shortages which occurred during the winter of 1942-43.

During the ensuing year the Administration will continue to be concerned with the high-octane program; the stimulation of intensive exploration, development, and drilling operations; the distribution of crude oils and refined products to satisfy both military and civilian needs; the securing of materials for the development of production, transportation, and refining facilities abroad; the encouragement of foreign explorations; arranging for crude imports into the United States; and the making available of larger amounts of products at foreign points from sources both within and without this country.

The 1945 estimate is slightly above the total amount appropriated for this agency for the fiscal year 1944. The increase is predicated largely upon a greater workload in the refining, production, supply and transportation, and foreign divisions.

WAR REFUGEE BOARD

The War Refugee Board was established by Executive order dated January 22, 1944, to take all measures possible to rescue the victims of enemy oppression who are in imminent danger of death and to provide such victims all possible relief and assistance consistent with the successful prosecution of the war. The Board consists of the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of War. An Executive Director serves as principal executive officer.

The functions of the Board include the development of effective measures for (a) the rescue, transportation, maintenance, and relief of the victims of enemy oppression, and (b) the establishment of havens of temporary refuge for such victims. The Board works in cooperation with the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and other interested international organizations.

EMERGENCY FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

DEFENSE AID (LEND-LEASE)

On March 11, 1941, the original Lend-Lease Act was approved "to promote the defense of the United States, and for other purposes." Under this act the President was authorized, when he deemed it to be in the interest of the national defense, to sell, transfer title to, exchange, lease, lend, or otherwise dispose of articles, information, or services to any country whose defense the President deemed vital to the defense of the United States. The act has been extended to June 30, 1945.

To enable the President to carry out the provisions of the act, there have been direct appropriations to the President totaling approximately $24.7 billions. In addition to these appropriations, the Congress authorized the President to transfer certain articles and services purchased directly by the War and Navy Departments, and to lease vessels procured out of appropriations made to the Navy Department and the United States Maritime Commission.

While 44 countries are eligible for lend-lease aid, by far the largest proportion has gone to the United Kingdom (42.5 percent) and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (27.6 percent).

Although responsibility for the administration of the Lend-Lease Act has been delegated by the President to the Foreign Economic Administration, various Government agencies have participated actively in the administration of the lend-lease program. These agencies include the Foreign Economic Administration, the Department of State, the Treasury Department, the War Department, the Navy Department, the Department of Agriculture, the War Food Administration, the Department of Commerce, the War Shipping Administration, and the United States Maritime Commission.

The 1945 obligations under the direct appropriation to the President for lend-lease are estimated at $7.2 billion. An appropriation of $3,450,570,000 has been requested toward this amount, the balance to be provided from unobligated funds from previous appropriations.

These budget estimates for the fiscal year 1945 are based upon continuing full scale war demands.

UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration was established by an agreement concluded on November 9, 1943, by the United Nations and associated nations and authorities. On March 28, 1944, the President approved a joint resolution of the Congress authorizing the appropriation of $1,350,000,000 as this Government's contribution toward the new international organization.

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, representing 44 Governments, is responsible for providing minimum essential supplies and services, including food, clothing, seed, shelter, tools, sanitation, and repatriation, to liberated peoples in the period directly following military operations. The cost of such supplies and services will be met from contributions by the several member Governments. The estimate of appropriated funds of $450,000,000 and of $350,000,000 in authority to transfer goods, funds, and services available for lend-lease purposes constitutes the first portion of this country's share of such costs.

In addition to the supplies and services provided for in the estimate, the request includes $4,000,000 for the United States share of the administrative expenses of the Administration.

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration itself will be principally responsible for the administration of the program. However, the Foreign Economic Administration and the several Government procurement agencies will assist the Administration in the procurement of goods within the United States. This Government is also expected to provide personnel for the Administration programs from the several agencies dealing with welfare and public health problems.

Because of the uncertain character of military operations and the difficulty of estimating the local resources that will be available to aid in the civilian supply program, these estimates will be subject to revision after the liberation of substantial areas of Europe.

INDEPENDENT ESTABLISHMENTS

SELECTIVE SERVICE SYSTEM

The Selective Service System was established for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940. To accomplish the objectives laid down by the Congress, the Selective Service System performs the following major functions:

1. Administers a process for meeting the manpower requirements of the armed forces without disrupting civilian functions critically necessary to war production.
2. Operates a program of work of national importance under civilian direction for individuals who are conscientiously opposed to participation in military service.
3. Renders aid in the replacement in their former positions of, or in securing new positions for persons who have satisfactorily completed any period of training and service with the armed forces.

The organization of the Selective Service System consists of a National Headquarters in Washington, D. C.; a State headquarters in each of the 48 States, New York City, District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands; and 6,440 local boards with at least one in each county or similarly constituted political subdivision.

The administration of Selective Service is widely decentralized and considerable latitude in administrative authority and responsibility is vested locally. The Governor of each State or Territory is the responsible head of Selective Service in his State; normally he administers his functions through a State director who is appointed by the President upon his recommendation. He also appoints or recommends for appointment by the President members of boards of appeal, medical advisory boards, advisory boards for registrants, Government appeal agents, examining physicians and dentists, veterans re-employment committeemen, medical field agents, and others who serve in an advisory capacity. The Selective Service System includes more than 170,000 patriotic citizens who receive no compensation from the Federal Government for their services.

The close of the fiscal year 1944 will have seen the accomplishment of the basic purpose behind Selective Service—the raising of the greatest armed force in the Nation's history. Fiscal year 1945 will see new problems. Replacements for the armed forces will have to be obtained at a time when nearly every acceptable man will be engaged in essential war production or activity and at a time when the demands on industry and agriculture will be at their peak. While the number of men to be inducted into the armed forces during the fiscal year 1945 may be substantially less than the number inducted during the fiscal year 1944, the volume of work to be handled by the various organizational units of the Selective Service System will show little if any reduction. The 1945 budget estimate therefore provides for the financing of this agency at approximately the same level as in 1944.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATOR OF CIVIL AERONAUTICS

Under the program for the development of landing areas for national defense the Civil Aeronautics Administration has been constructing and improving public airports at sites selected by the Administrator and approved as necessary for national defense by a board composed of the Secretaries of War, Navy, and Commerce.⁷ The program is substantially complete, and no additional funds are required. Unavoidable delays in acquiring sites, completing engineering surveys, and letting contracts, however, require that the unexpended balances of the funds already appropriated be extended through the fiscal year 1945.

NOTE.—Generally, the 1944 appropriations were based on a workweek of 44 hours and did not include overtime and additional compensation authorized by recent statutes; in many cases, they will have to be supplemented to meet such compensation in the fiscal year 1944. The 1945 estimates, however, are based, generally, on a workweek of 48 hours and do include funds for overtime and additional compensation in the amounts indicated.

PREFACE

As indicated by the note following the preceding summary table, a comparison of the totals of the 1944 appropriations and 1945 estimates would be misleading, because the 1945 estimates include sufficient funds to meet the total cost of overtime and additional compensation, authorized by recent acts of Congress, while the 1944 appropriations made no provision for such payments. Such a comparison becomes even more unrealistic when it is realized that savings, in varying amounts, accruing during 1944 as a result of the lengthening of the official workweek, as well as savings from other causes, will be used to offset, as much as possible, the increased cost of personal services resulting from the payment of overtime and additional compensation.

The explanations of increases and decreases given in the following text therefore exclude from the comparisons the funds required to pay overtime and additional compensation, and deal only with the changes in fund requirements which reflect adjustments in workloads, work programs, and related factors. Hence the 1945 increases or decreases indicated in the last column of the above summary table are not strictly related to the explanations.

SOLID FUELS ADMINISTRATION FOR WAR

The Solid Fuels Administration for War was established in the Department of the Interior on April 19, 1943, by an Executive order which abolished the Office of Solid Fuels Coordinator for National Defense.

The Administration centralizes Government policies and activities pertaining to solid fuels and is the channel of liaison and communication between the solid fuels industries and Federal agencies on fuel questions under its jurisdiction. The Administrator establishes basic policies and formulates programs to assure industrial operation on a basis that meets wartime requirements and provides an equitable distribution of solid fuels for civilian needs.

During the coal year ended March 31, 1944, definite efforts were made to curtail uneconomic coal movements and to direct the flow of coal to essential uses and to areas threatened with shortages. Special emphasis was placed upon the conservation of solid fuels and stockpiling by industry and home consumers during the spring and summer, to guard against critical shortages during the winter months.

The policies and programs of the Administration have contributed materially to preventing a maldistribution of solid fuels, a faltering in war production, and serious civilian hardship. This result has been achieved despite unprecedented requirements for solid fuels, substantial losses in production resulting from work stoppages, and shortages in equipment and manpower.

The aim of the Administration during the ensuing coal year will be to establish regulatory controls assuring an orderly and fair flow of solid fuels to all consumers. In meeting its responsibilities the Administration has established industry advisory groups and State and local organizations to assist in the formulation and execution of emergency programs and this joint responsibility will be continued.

The estimate for the fiscal year 1945 exceeds by approximately 60 percent the amount appropriated for this agency for the fiscal year 1944. The increase provides the necessary additional amount to permit the agency to operate on a full fiscal year basis and to meet an increased workload resulting from a serious shortage of solid fuels which confronts the Nation.

WAR RELOCATION AUTHORITY

The War Relocation Authority is a special wartime agency established by Executive order issued March 18, 1942, and transferred by Executive order to the Department of the Interior on February 16, 1944. It was created primarily to provide for the needs of approximately 110,000 persons of Japanese ancestry who were evacuated by military order from the Pacific Coast region in the spring and summer of 1942.

The Authority is currently operating nine relocation centers and one segregation center located in each of seven States. The populations of these centers range from 6,500 to 16,000; on February 1, 1944, they aggregated 92,099 persons. While residing in the centers the evacuees are provided with subsistence, quarters, education, medical service, and work opportunities. In an effort to make the centers as nearly self-supporting as possible, agricultural and other enterprises are conducted by the Authority, which supply a considerable portion of the food requirements.

One of the principal objectives of the Authority is to remove as rapidly as possible from the centers those evacuees whose loyalty to the United States can be satisfactorily established, and to relocate them in other areas free from military restrictions. It is anticipated that through this relocation process a reduction in the total population of the centers to an average of 85,000 persons will be effected during the next fiscal year. The 1945 estimate is predicated on such a reduction in population and, chiefly for that reason, is approximately 17 percent less than the 1944 appropriation which was provided to maintain an average of 100,000 evacuees.

NOTE.—Generally the 1944 appropriations were based on a workweek of 44 hours and did not include overtime and additional compensation authorized by recent statutes; in many cases, they will have to be supplemented to meet such compensation in the fiscal year 1944. The 1945 estimates, however, are based, generally, on a workweek of 48 hours and do include funds for overtime and additional compensation in the amounts indicated.

PREFACE

As indicated by the note following the preceding summary table, a comparison of the totals of the 1944 appropriations and 1945 estimates would be misleading, because the 1945 estimates include sufficient funds to meet the total cost of overtime and additional compensation, authorized by recent acts of Congress, while the 1944 appropriations made no provision for such payments. Such a comparison becomes even more unrealistic when it is realized that savings, in varying amounts, accruing during 1944 as a result of the lengthening of the official work week, as well as savings from other causes, will be used to offset, as much as possible, the increased cost of personal services resulting from the payment of overtime and additional compensation.

The explanations of increases and decreases given in the following text therefore exclude from the comparisons the funds required to pay overtime and additional compensation, and deal only with the changes in fund requirements which reflect adjustments in workloads, work programs, and related factors. Hence, the 1945 increases or decreases indicated in the last column of the above summary table are not strictly related to the explanations.

GENERAL STATEMENT

The fundamental naval policy of the United States is to maintain the Navy in strength and readiness to uphold national policies and interests, and to guard the United States and its continental and overseas possessions. The administration of this policy is carried out by the Navy Department.

The Navy Department comprises the Offices of the Secretary, Commander in Chief of the United States Fleet and Vice Chief of Naval Operations, the Bureaus of Naval Personnel, Yards and Docks, Ordnance, Ships, Supplies and Accounts, Medicine and Surgery, Aeronautics, and the Headquarters, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

During the fiscal year 1944 the Navy Department has been active not only in the procurement of additional equipment for expanding and operating the world's largest Navy, but has also fought a global war involving naval operations that have covered the North Atlantic, Mediterranean, Caribbean, South Atlantic, and all parts of the Pacific Oceans.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

The Navy Department is directed by the Secretary of the Navy, a civilian who has as his principal advisers the Under Secretary of the Navy; the Assistant Secretary; the Assistant Secretary for Air; the Commander in Chief and Chief of Naval Operations; the chiefs of the seven bureaus; the Judge Advocate General; the Chairman of the General Board; the Budget Officer; the Commandant, Marine Corps, and in time of war, the Commandant, Coast Guard.

The Under Secretary of the Navy is responsible for liaison with other agencies; for the preparation and execution of contracts for the procurement of necessary facilities, supplies, and equipment, and for their production.

The general administrative control of the material activities of all shore establishments of the Navy is in the hands of an Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Supervision over naval aviation and the coordination of air activities with other governmental agencies is the responsibility of an Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air.

The legal department of the Navy is headed by the Judge Advocate General who is concerned with all matters of law involved in the service.

Preparation and administration of the budget of the Navy is handled by the Office of Budget and Reports.

To coordinate research activities of the Navy with those of other agencies and to effect the fullest cooperation, the Office of Coordinator of Research and Development has been established.

The purpose of the General Board is to insure the preparation of the fleet in case of war and for the defense of the coast. It is a consulting body for matters of general policy referred to it by the Secretary.

COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE UNITED STATES FLEET

The duties of the Commander in Chief of the United States Fleet and the Chief of Naval Operations have been combined since the war started. The Commander in Chief and Chief of Naval Operations is the highest naval command and as such advises the President on naval affairs, and the Secretary of the Navy on the conduct of the activities of the naval establishment.

VICE CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Vice Chief of Naval Operations executes the plans and policies of the Commander in Chief of the United States Fleet and Chief of Naval Operations, with respect to the preparation, readiness, and logistic support of the operating forces of the Navy. By means of the twelve divisions of his office the activities of all bureaus and offices are coordinated.

BUREAU OF NAVAL PERSONNEL

The Bureau of Naval Personnel is the personnel bureau of the Navy and as such is responsible for manning all ships and shore stations with trained personnel. To accomplish this task it must cover all the phases of procurement, education, training, discipline, mobilization, promotion, transportation and distribution of the Navy, including Naval Reserve. Shore establishments necessary to carry out this enormous program all come under the cognizance of this Bureau.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS

In effect the Bureau of Yards and Docks is the civil engineering and construction activity of the Navy. It develops, plans, and constructs all public works, utilities and facilities of the shore establishment that are necessary to meet the needs of the fleet in domestic and advanced areas.

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE

The function of the Bureau of Ordnance is to arm the Navy both offensively and defensively. It is charged with the design and procurement of arms, ammunition, including armor, torpedoes, mines, depth charges, rockets, and other weapons of war.

Naval ordnance establishments ashore, such as torpedo stations, mine depots, and powder factories, are operated under its cognizance.

BUREAU OF SHIPS

The Bureau of Ships has the responsibility for providing all ships for the Navy except air ships. The general design, structural strength, and seaworthiness of all ships for the Navy, together with the development, installation and operation of their main propulsion plants, are the functions of this Bureau. It also has responsibility for maintenance, repair, alteration, modernization or conversion of hull and machinery of naval vessels. All auxiliary machinery, except units provided as part of armament, also comes under its cognizance. To keep abreast of the rapid strides in scientific development, the Bureau maintains experimental laboratories for test, development, and research of various ship components.

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS

The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts has the function of accounting for the funds and supplying of the material used by the Navy. It has the responsibility of procuring, warehousing, and issuing of supplies, fuel, and other materials. It prepares and submits estimates of funds required for freight, fuel, clothing, pay allowances, subsistence, and transportation of Navy personnel.

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY

This Bureau administers the medical department which provides medical care for the Navy and Marine Corps. It is represented not only in continental United States but in outlying territories and possessions and aboard every Navy vessel, including hospital ships. The specific responsibility of this Bureau is the maintenance of the health of the Navy and the care of its sick and injured. It provides by careful physical examination for the selection of men of excellent health and physique for service in the Navy and Marine Corps and for the elimination of those unfitted by disease or injury for further active service. The mission of the Medical Department is to promote the efficiency of the Navy and Marine Corps through the maintenance of physical fitness.

BUREAU OF AERONAUTICS

The mission of this Bureau is to equip the Navy with airplanes of the maximum performance, reliability, and endurance. To accomplish this the Bureau of Aeronautics has cognizance of the design, construction, testing, and repair of aircraft for both the Navy and Marine Corps, including instruments and accessories except for certain items of radio and ordnance equipment. All aeronautical shore establishments in the Navy and Marine Corps come under its supervision. All photographic activities of the Navy with the exception of certain specialized types are the responsibility of this bureau. In cooperation with other agencies having to do with scientific development and research, experimental aeronautical work is continually carried on to insure constant improvement in the naval air arm.

HEADQUARTERS, MARINE CORPS

The Marine Corps is an integral part of the Navy. While a component of the naval service existing primarily "to support the fleet," marines have in times of naval emergency been detached for special service. It has four distinct tasks: (1) To maintain a mobile force in immediate readiness for use in operation involving shore objectives; (2) to maintain marine detachments as a part of the ship's crew on battleships, aircraft carriers, and cruisers; (3) to provide forces for the protection of American lives and property abroad; and (4) to provide garrisons for the safeguarding of Navy yards and naval stations in the United States and in outlying possessions.

HEADQUARTERS, COAST GUARD

In time of war or national emergency the Coast Guard constitutes a part of the military forces of the United States. In addition to its specialized services such as Lighthouse Service and Merchant Marine Inspection Service it assists the fleet in patrolling coastal waters, maintains district and harbor defense patrols, and furnishes a large part of its personnel for manning naval auxiliary landing craft, convoy escort vessels, and such other specialized activities as the Navy may direct. The Coast Guard has retained its entity to permit its return to the Treasury Department in time of peace, carrying out its duties as Federal maritime police and safeguarding navigation on the high seas and navigable waters of the United States.

NAVY BUDGET PROGRAM, FISCAL YEAR 1945

The total budget for 1945 is $27.9 billion and $2.8 billion in new contract authorization. Of the $27.9 billion, $10.4 billion is for the liquidation of prior contract authorization.

The shipbuilding program, including repair facilities and floating dry docks, will amount to $8 billion, or approximately 29 percent of the total. This amount is the major part of the $10.4 billion of liquidation of contract authorizations mentioned above.

Maintenance and operation of the fleet is estimated at $5.9 billion, or 21 percent of the total.

Aviation, including about $2 billion of the $10.4 billion for liquidation of prior contract authorizations, accounts for $5.8 billion, or approximately 21 percent. The new contract authorization of $2.8 billion is also for aviation.

Naval personnel represents $6.3 billion or 22 percent of the total estimate. Marine Corps requirements are $1.1 billion, or 4 percent, and Coast Guard expenses are estimated at $42 million, or about 1.8 percent.

For public works $281 million are included for the liquidation of prior contract authorizations. This amount represents about 1 percent of the total and together with the amounts mentioned under shipbuilding and aviation complete the breakdown of the $10.4 billion.

Miscellaneous appropriations account for $62.2 million or about 0.2 percent of the total request.

NOTE.—Generally, the 1944 appropriations were based on a workweek of 44 hours and did not include overtime and additional compensation authorized by recent statutes. The 1945 estimates, however, are based generally on a workweek of 48 hours and do include funds for overtime and additional compensation in the amounts indicated.

PREFACE

As indicated by the note following the preceding summary table, a comparison of the totals of the 1944 appropriations and 1945 estimates would be misleading, because the 1945 estimates include sufficient funds to meet the total cost of overtime and additional compensation, authorized by recent acts of Congress, while the 1944 appropriations made no provision for such payments. Such a comparison becomes even more unrealistic when it is realized that savings, in varying amounts, accruing during 1944 as a result of the lengthening of the official workweek, as well as savings from other causes, will be used to offset, as much as possible, the increased cost of personal services resulting from the payment of overtime and additional compensation.

The explanations of increases and decreases given in the following text therefore exclude from the comparisons the funds required to pay overtime and additional compensation, and deal only with the changes in fund requirements which reflect adjustments in workloads, work programs, and related factors. Hence, the 1945 increases or decreases indicated in the last column of the above summary table are not strictly related to the explanations.

GENERAL STATEMENT

The War Department is charged with the responsibility of organizing, equipping, training, and maintaining the Army, and certain nonmilitary activities, under conditions prescribed by Congress. The Army of the United States consists of the Regular Army, the National Guard of the United States, the National Guard while in the service of the United States, the Officers Reserve Corps, the Organized Reserves, and the Enlisted Reserve Corps. These components constituted, in time of peace, the framework on which the present great national force of well-trained and properly equipped men was quickly built. The following text discusses briefly the organization of the War Department concluding with a statement of the military budget program for the fiscal year 1945.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF WAR

The Secretary of War is head of the Department and performs such duties as are required of him by law or which are assigned to him by the President. He is charged specifically with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the Department, including the Military Establishment; with the procurement of all military supplies and related matters, including adequate provision for the mobilization of matériel and industrial facilities essential to wartime needs; with all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army; and with such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed under his direction by Congress.

The Secretary is responsible for the proper execution of the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920, as amended; for the protection of seacoast harbors and cities; for the development of improved weapons and matériel; for proper instruction of all military personnel; and for the discipline and morale of the Military Establishment. He directs the civil functions of the Corps of Engineers, which include development of navigable waterways, flood control, power, and irrigation. Among his other responsibilities are the defense, maintenance, and operation of the Panama Canal, and supervision of the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Under Secretary of War.—The Under Secretary of War performs such duties and responsibilities as may be delegated to him by the Secretary of War. Such assignments now include the duties and responsibilities placed upon the Secretary of War by section 5A of the National Defense Act, as amended, pertaining to the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to wartime needs; coordination and direction over procurement and related matters of the Army Air Forces and the Army Service Forces; and coordination of these War Department functions with the War Production Board and other agencies involved in the allocation of matériel or industrial facilities to various uses.

The mission of the Command and General Staff School is to train officers for command and general staff duty. The Army War College, which has suspended classes during the war, has trained officers for wartime command and staff positions in field armies and in the general headquarters of the entire Army. In time of peace, the Army Industrial College trains officers in the procurement of munitions and in the preparation of plans for mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to wartime needs; currently, this college is engaged more particularly in problems concerning the demobilization of our wartime industry.

UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY

The United States Military Academy is located at West Point, N. Y. The 4-year academic course is now completed in 3 years, followed by a 6- to 13-week period in an officers' training camp. Besides a general education, the cadets receive theoretical and practical training as junior officers, and those who complete the course satisfactorily graduate with the rank of second lieutenant in the Regular Army.

TERRITORIAL DIVISIONS OF THE ARMY

The continental United States is divided into three defense commands which border upon the three strategic frontiers. The fourth, the Caribbean Defense Command, includes the Panama Canal and Puerto Rican Departments. The Panama Canal Zone, the Hawaiian Islands, Puerto Rico, and Alaska constitute what are known as the four departments. Command of units within the departments is, generally speaking, decentralized to department commanders, except for certain exempted stations which operate under War Department control.

MILITARY BUDGET PROGRAM, FISCAL YEAR 1945

The War Department estimates for the fiscal year 1945 contemplate an appropriation of $15.7 billion in new funds, and a reappropriation of unobligated balances of $33.7 billion as of June 30, 1944. This would make available to the War Department a total of $49.4 billion for the fiscal year 1945, which compares with $74.2 billion made available for the fiscal year 1944, and $74.9 billion for the fiscal year 1943.

The carry-over of $33.7 billion of 1944 funds has been made possible by the reduction in the projected strength of the Army, adjustment of stock levels, substantial revision in unit costs resulting from volume production, and reduction in shipping losses. As the general outlook of the war became brighter, it was determined that the maximum strength of the Army could be reduced from the 8.2 million officers and men on which estimates for 1944 were based, to 7.7 million, its present authorized strength. The resultant reduction in estimated obligations for fiscal year 1944 was approximately $2 billion.

By the end of 1943, the initial equipment program had been largely completed and the trend turned toward replacement items. Maintenance needs of overseas units proved to be less extensive than the fixed percentage of replacements which had been in effect. Estimated requirements could therefore be greatly reduced so that excess reserves of maintenance material would be used up. Overseas requirements are now shipped almost entirely on requisition by overseas commanders. Stock levels were adjusted to levels consistent with experience requirements and the use of surplus supplies reduced the requirements for new stocks. These various factors reduced matériel requirements by approximately $18.5 billion. Unit prices gradually leveled off and became stabilized as industry increased its efficiency and accumulated cost experience, fewer new items and fewer items of a developmental nature were procured, and the processes of renegotiation were realistically applied. These factors resulted in savings of an additional $12.9 billion. The remaining $234 million of the unobligated balance represents savings in various miscellaneous items, and unused funds appropriated for certain contingencies which did not arise.

By and large the Budget estimates for the fiscal year 1945 reflect the near completion of the initial heavy procurement program, with emphasis shifting to less costly expendable and replacement items. Fund requirements for the pay of military personnel has become the largest single item in the estimates, with the exception of the requirements of the Army Air Forces. Approximately 25 percent of the total request for fiscal year 1945 is for pay of military personnel, while for 1944 it represented but 15.5 percent of total funds made available. The higher average strength of the Army, the greater number drawing overseas pay, and the greater number of people receiving family allowances account for the increase over estimated 1944 obligations. The airplane program requirements represent approximately 22 percent of the 1945 total, while it was 33 percent last year; the cost of ammunition, guns, tanks, and combat vehicles represents 13 percent of requirements in both years; communications equipment is reduced from 2.5 percent to 2 percent this year; and subsistence, clothing, and general supplies, which amounted to 6 percent last year, has increased to over 9 percent for 1945, due largely to the higher average strength to be fed, clothed, and maintained and to the increased numbers in overseas theaters of operations.

Appropriations amounting to $4.3 billion are requested for fiscal year 1945 to provide military equipment for our allied nations under lend-lease arrangements. This amount represents less than 9 percent of the 1945 military budget estimates, and is a reduction of approximately 16 percent compared with the estimates for fiscal year 1944. It is estimated that actual transfers of lend-lease material will amount to approximately $14.3 billion as of June 30, 1944, of which 70 percent is from Army Service Forces and 30 percent from Army Air Forces. Arrangements with lend-lease nations also provide that supplies, equipment, and services will be furnished to United States Army Forces under a system of reverse lend-lease. Through December 31, 1943, reciprocal aid from the British Commonwealth of Nations to the armed forces and the merchant marine has been estimated to total approximately $2.1 billion, and this is the major source of such aid.

Other items represent approximately 20 percent of the total amounts available in both the 1944 and 1945 fiscal years.

The large scale movement of troops overseas will continue until maximum pressure is exerted against the enemy. The Army reached its planned strength of 7.7 million on April 1, 1944. By December 31, 1944, approximately 5 million troops will be overseas, and 2.7 million will remain within the United States. Our supply lines will be extended and enlarged and a tremendous volume of war matériel of all kinds will be transported overseas. There is every reason to believe that the approaching period will be one of heavy fighting involving great numbers of American troops with heavy replacement requirements in men and materials.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

Cargoes, Incorporated, was originally organized under the name of Ships, Incorporated, its preferred stock being purchased by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with funds allocated by the Office of Lend-Lease Administration pursuant to legislation defining the authorities of these organizations (22 U. S. C. 411 et seq, and 15 U. S. C. 606b). The corporation was taken over in June 1942 by the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation purchasing the common stock with funds allocated by that Office. Executive Order 9380 of September 25, 1943, consolidated the Office of Lend-Lease Administration into the Foreign Economic Administration. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation now holds the common and preferred stock for the account of the Foreign Economic Administration as beneficial owner.

The purpose of the corporation is to construct experimental cargo vessels and other craft and conduct the research and testing necessary thereto. Since the shipping crisis which occasioned the creation of the corporation has been alleviated, its outstanding contracts are being liquidated.

The expenditures and means of financing the corporation are shown in the foregoing statement.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The Export-Import Bank of Washington was incorporated February 12, 1934, under the laws of the District of Columbia pursuant to Executive Order 6581 dated February 2, 1934. By the act approved January 31, 1935 (49 Stat. 4), as amended by the act of September 26, 1940 (54 Stat. 961), it was continued as an agency of the United States until January 22, 1947, or such earlier date as the President may fix by Executive order. The Bank was placed under the supervision of the Federal Loan Agency Administrator by Reorganization Plan I, effective July 1, 1939. By Executive Order 9071 of February 24, 1942, it was placed under the supervision of the Secretary of Commerce, then pursuant to Executive Order 9361 of July 15, 1943, under the Office of the Director of Economic Warfare and subsequently, pursuant to Executive Order 9380 of September 25, 1943, under the Office of the Foreign Economic Administrator.

Present capital stock of the Bank consists of one million dollars ($1,000,000), of common stock held by the United States and $174,000,000 of preferred stock held by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which may, with the approval of the President, continue to supply through loans or by subscriptions to preferred stock, the funds needed by the Bank for its operations (49 Stat. 4). By act of March 4, 1939 (53 Stat. 38), and September 26, 1940 (54 Stat. 961), the lending authority of the Bank was limited to $700,000,000, within which amount loans to the extent of $500,000,000 outstanding at any one time may be granted to assist in the development of the resources, the stabilization of the economies and the orderly marketing of the products of the countries of the Western Hemisphere.

The Export-Import Bank of Washington, prior to the war, was principally engaged in financing the export of surplus agricultural crops and assisting United States manufacturers and suppliers to meet the competition of foreign firms. While continuing these activities, modified to meet present changing conditions, the Bank today is engaged in financing the exportation of equipment required for projects important to the war effort as well as such development of the resources of other countries as may be to the mutual interest of the United States and the borrowing country.

The receipts, expenditures, and means of financing the Bank are shown in the foregoing statement.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The Petroleum Reserves Corporation was created June 30, 1943, pursuant to the authority contained in section 5d of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act as amended. Its purposes are to acquire reserves of crude petroleum from sources outside the United States; to transport, produce, process, and dispose of such crude petroleum and products derived from it; and to construct and operate outside the United States such petroleum facilities as are necessary in connection with these functions. Total authorized capital stock of the Corporation is one million dollars ($1,000,000), but none has been issued to date.

By Executive Order 9361, dated July 15, 1943, the Petroleum Reserves Corporation was transferred to the Office of Economic Warfare and provisions were made for financing its operations through Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans. On September 25, 1943, by Executive Order 9380 this Corporation, along with all other

Office of Economic Warfare operations, was made a part of the Foreign Economic Administration.

Construction of a pipe line for the transportation of petroleum from the Persian Gulf area to a point on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean is currently under consideration. The Petroleum Reserves Corporation is the agency acting on behalf of the United States Government.

Expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1944, have been small due to the fact that activities have been confined to planning and negotiation work preliminary to entrance into large scale project operations. This has required only a nucleus staff. Estimated expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1945, are based on the assumption that project construction will be under way early in the year and extend beyond the end of the fiscal year.

The expenditures and means of financing the Corporation are shown in the foregoing statement.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The Rubber Development Corporation was created February 20, 1943, pursuant to section 5d of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended. By Executive Order 9361, dated July 15, 1943, the Corporation was transferred to the Office of Economic Warfare and provisions were made for its financing through Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans. On September 25, 1943, the Corporation as part of the Office of Economic Warfare was consolidated into the Foreign Economic Administration by Executive Order 9380.

The Corporation is the agency of the United States Government principally charged with the development and procurement of natural rubber from sources outside the continental United States. In addition, the Corporation has worked with the governments and citizens of the several rubber-producing countries in encouraging conservation and control measures designed to reduce the consumption of rubber and rubber goods in those countries.

Whenever possible, the Corporation has operated its programs through agencies of the indigenous country or through private concerns of those countries.

The receipts, expenditures, and means of financing the Corporation are shown in the foregoing table.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The United States Commercial Company was created on March 26, 1942, pursuant to section 5d of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act as amended. On July 15, 1943, the Company was transferred to the Office of Economic Warfare by Executive Order 9361. On September 25, 1943, by Executive Order 9380, the Company was transferred with all other Office of Economic Warfare functions to the Foreign Economic Administration. By Executive Order 9385 dated October 6, 1943, the foreign foodstuffs procurement functions of the War Food Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation with some exceptions were transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration and merged with the functions of the United States Commercial Company.

Its authorized capital stock is $5,000,000, all of which has been issued and is presently held by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the Foreign Economic Administration pending transfer of record to that Administration.

The United States Commercial Company's operations are financed through Reconstruction Finance Corporation advances which are repaid from the receipts resulting from the sale of the commodities imported.

The United States Commercial Company acts on behalf of the Foreign Economic Administration in the procurement and development abroad of materials essential to our war effort. The Company is also engaged in preclusive purchase operations in neutral countries for the purpose of denying to the enemy vital war materials.

Most of the United States Commercial Company's programs were carried on in the past by several other Government corporations. Since September 25, 1943, these programs have been in the process of transfer to the United States Commercial Company. The 1944 estimates reflect the extent to which these programs have already been transferred. The 1945 estimates are based on the assumption that all of these programs will be transferred to United States Commercial Company by the beginning of the coming fiscal year.

Because of the nature of the preclusive operations of the Foreign Economic Administration it is not expected that the major portion of the materials purchased preclusively will be disposed of during the fiscal years 1944 and 1945.

The receipts, expenditures, and means of financing are shown in the foregoing statement.

It is a Government controlled nonprofit membership corporation. Its certificate of incorporation does not limit the period of its existence.

The purposes of the Corporation are to help solve critical health, sanitation, and food problems that impair the war effort; to provide assistance which will expedite the procurement of strategic and critical materials essential to the war effort; to carry out the obligations of this Government with relation to the health and sanitation program assumed by it under Resolution 30 of the meeting of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the American Republics held in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil January 15-28, 1942; and to offset the serious economic dislocations created by the war, principally disruption of agricultural production and local industries, caused by restrictions in the export from this country of materials and equipment.

The Corporation is financed by grants made to it by the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs. The total amount granted or to be granted to the Corporation through June 30, 1944, is estimated at $64,424,404 of which amount it is estimated $46,424,404 will be paid over to the Corporation by June 30, 1944, and the remainder in subsequent fiscal years in accordance with the cash needs of the Corporation for carrying out its programs which are based on notes exchanged and cooperative agreements executed with Latin American republics.

This Corporation is a Government controlled nonprofit (stock) corporation. The period of its existence is not limited in its certificate of incorporation.

The general purpose of the Corporation, as set forth in its certificate of incorporation, is to assist and improve the means and methods of transportation in the Western Hemisphere whether by land, by air, or by water. of Mexico as stated in an exchange of notes between the Governments of Mexico and the United States dated November 18, 1942. The purpose of this work is to bring the right-of-way and rolling stock of the National Railways into such operating condition as to permit the expeditious movement of extra wartime traffic in strategic materials.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The Inter-American Navigation Corporation was created under the laws of the State of Delaware on July 15, 1942, pursuant to authority contained in the Third Supplemental National Defense Appropriation Act, 1942 (Public Law 353, 77th Congress, approved December 17, 1941). This Corporation is a Government controlled nonprofit (stock) corporation, and its existence was limited to a period of ten years by its certificate of incorporation.

The Corporation was formed to carry out plans approved at a meeting of the members of the Board of Economic Warfare, held on June 25, 1942, for supplementing existing shipping facilities with a small cargo-vessel program to be carried out through the acquisition and coordination of all existing small tonnage in the Latin-American trades, particularly the Caribbean area, and the construction in Latin-American shipyards of additional small vessels.

The Corporation was capitalized by the purchase of its entire issue of capital stock by the Coordinator of Inter-

American Affairs as agent for the United States of America. In connection with its operations, it borrowed $192,952 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which amount has been repaid.

On April 30, 1943, an agreement was made with the War Shipping Administration under which the vessels of the Corporation were turned over to that agency for the purpose of coordinating all vessel operations in the Caribbean and Latin-American trades. The purpose for which the Corporation was formed having been accomplished, the Corporation is making no further commitments and is proceeding with the liquidation of its assets. The consent to dissolution of the Corporation was filed with the Secretary of the State of Delaware on February 25, 1944, and the certificate of dissolution issued and recorded.

The receipts, expenditures, and means of financing are shown in detail in the foregoing statement.
